City of San Diego v. Roe: Its Impact on the Discipline of Officers for Off-Duty Speech
by J. Scott Tiedemann
Last year, the Ninth Circuit released its decision in Roe v. City of San Diego, a decision that came as a shock to many in the law enforcement community. It also apparently shocked the United States Supreme Court which, on December 6, reversed the Ninth Circuit. The ramifications and the legal background of the Court’s decision are explored in this article.

Conduct Unbecoming an Officer
by Kenneth R. Wal lentine Although a law enforcement agency may impose restrictions on its officers that would not be allowed in a private employment context, not all limitations on officers’ off-duty rights of association, conduct, and speech will be upheld. Ken Wallentine outlines the case law and issues surrounding regulations based in “conduct unbecoming.”

Emerging Issues Surrounding the Use of Conducted Energy Weapons by Police
by Mark Newbold
Tasers and other Conducted Energy Weapons (CEWs) are legitimate tools in law enforcement, although concerns have been raised—most recently by Amnesty International—as to the proper and safe use of these implements. Mark Newbold examines the ongoing debate between Taser International and Amnesty International and others, and makes recommendations on police department practices.

To Pursue or Not to Pursue? That Is the Question: High-Speed Police Chases or “Hot Pursuits” — What All Municipalities Should Know
by Nichelle A. Johnson
Police high-speed chases are a highly controversial issue, and municipalities, police officers, and police departments around the nation are increasingly absorbed in litigation that investigates and evaluates their conduct in initiating and maintaining high-speed pursuits.
